Design Studio Export

Set it up

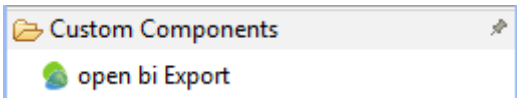
With this download package, you have downloaded our Custom Component as a ZIP archive.

➔ Add it to Design Studio via the Extension Installer (for details see section 1.3 of the User Guide). The “open bi Export” Component will be available afterwards



The Export Component uses a .NET service in order to provide also complex export functions and the best export quality.

For productive usage, we recommend to use a local installation in your company. While evaluating the solution, you can also use our Cloud Service https://designstudioexport.biexcellence.com.

➔ Add this URL, as well as the DesignStudio URL, to the Trusted Sites of your Web Client:
- Internet Explorer: http://answers.microsoft.com/en-us/ie/forum/ie9-windows_7/how-do-i-add-a-site-to-my-trusted-sites-list/98cc77c8-b364-e011-8dfc-68b599b31bf5
- Chrome: https://productforums.google.com/forum/#!topic/chrome/BLOivjDTTW0
- Firefox: https://support.mozilla.org/en-US/questions/754739
- Safari: https://discussions.apple.com/message/8596041#8596041?messageID=8596041

➔ Delete “ONLINE” from the Publish Mode parameter

➔ Maintain your www.biexcellence.com username and password under “Additional Properties” of the Export Component:

Try it out

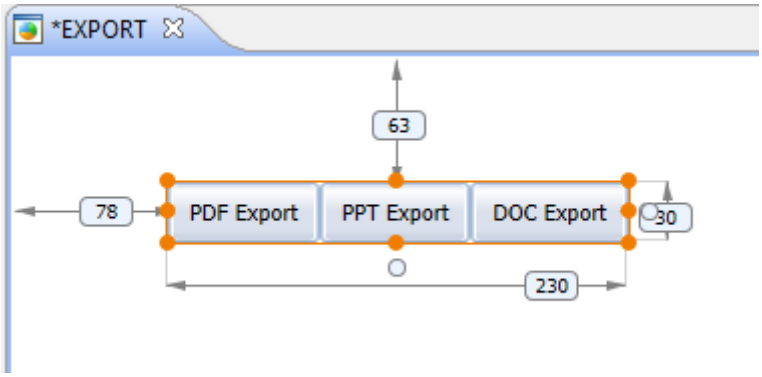
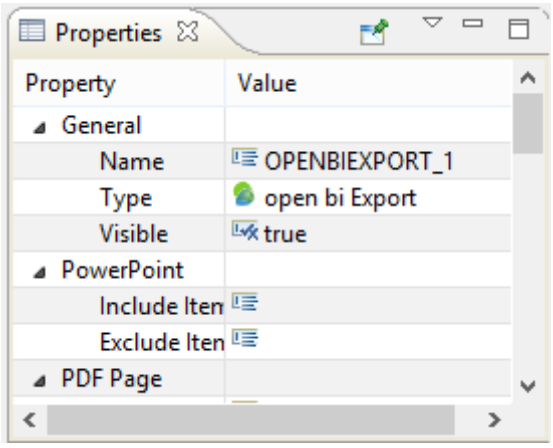
When you drag the component onto a Design Studio Application, it will render four buttons on the canvas: For export to PDF, PowerPoint, Word and Excel.



In the Properties pane you find several options to alter the rendering of the component and the generation of the export.



You do not have to change any properties for a first Export test. Simply run your DesignStudio Dashboard in the Web Client and hit one of the buttons. The Cloud Service should return a 1:1 export of your Dashboard as a response.

Of course, we offer a wide range of features to individualize and alter the export.

Go beyond

Check out section 2 of the User Guide to learn about the settings you can change for the Export Component.

Check out section 3 for even more sophisticated exports.
